Everyday emotional states. A steadier place to choose.

Ten state-specific protocols, written and published. Track 01 is free permanently with an account — the entry point to the whole library, not a trial.

TEN PROTOCOLS, ONE SEQUENCE

WHY THIS TRACK MATTERS

Family life, schooling, culture and repeated adversity can teach us to anticipate rejection, hide emotion or remain on guard. Those responses can persist as anxiety, anger, shame or shutdown, shaping what feels possible long after the circumstances change. Knowing the pattern does not always make another response accessible.

HOW THE TRACK IS BUILT

Who it serves

Adults navigating everyday distress, transitions and self-doubt. A broad entry point for individuals and for organisational members alike.

How it is used

Use a session in a difficult moment, then record the experience. Return to the same protocol to notice recurring triggers, responses and what helps.

WHERE IT SITS COMMERCIALY

Contribution to the collection

Free entry supports discovery and trust; the wider collection creates the route into paid membership. The contribution is indirect — acquisition and engagement.

SafeRise helps members notice the state beneath the reaction, explore its learned meaning and practise regulation with compassion. Attention becomes awareness, and awareness becomes authorship — supporting healing, behaviour change and sound judgment.

Resources and depth

Guided practice, cue cards, expert insights and safe-practice guidance; private journals and progress reporting; decision, support and repair resources.

What makes it different

A complete state-specific experience, free with an account — immediate practice connected to private reflection and a wider development library.

Review and delivery

Method and clinical safety reviewers. Verify resource access and the private progress flow before release.

Success measures. First-session activation · 30-day return · free-to-paid conversion. Support for everyday states, alongside professional care where needed — when familiar reactions govern daily life, self-criticism and avoidance narrow what feels possible.
